

Dear Sir and Ma'am,

A blessed day! With God grace I hope you are all fine as I am here.

I am Arlene Lintan Alejo, a twenty six years old and single. I am the youngest and I have three brothers. At early age when our parents died so I stayed to my auntie till I finished my secondary school. For my college I support myself, I took my degree in Saint Mary's University, a catholic school and I worked as a student Librarian. So, I was able to finish college degree of Bachelor of Science in Commerce majoring Banking and Finance. After finishing my college, I tried to hunt a job. Luckily, a distant relative offer me a job, a net cafe staff, I accepted the job even though this is far related to what I have finished, I considered this is just a stepping stone and for additional learning and experience. After six months I quit to that job and decided to apply an overseas job.

My brothers, some friends and relatives are against to my decision but I insist my reason is I want to learn and experience something different.

God is kinder enough because for not a long time I deployed here in Taiwan with a kind employers.

They treated me as their own family tie and my employer's parents are also fond on me because they say that I always make them laugh.

When I arrived here my lady boss is pregnant and two weeks more to wait she will give birth for their first child. My task here is to look for the whole family but my priority is to look for the baby. The baby is a boy a very cute boy. For the child I am the one to prepare the food and feed him, change his diaper, take a bath him. I also play with him and we go out to the park. Sometimes when he is not feeling well and he need to go for doctor's check up. I accompany them. For taking his medicine I am the one to do it. When the child want to take rest or sleep, I cuddle him with a slow swing so that he can easily get to sleep. Sometimes the child want to sleep with me so we have to sleep together. So from new born to now that he is two years old I am the responsible to look for him.

Last January of this current year, my lady boss again give birth for their second child, included to my task is to assist her and sometimes I also look for the children. But according to my employers my priority is the two years old because my lady boss is not going to work anymore so she can look for the new born baby.

For the elders I am the one to prepare their regular meal and assist them in taking their vitamins and medicines. Regularly I also check up their blood pressure and for the grandmother because she is diabetic, I have to watch the foods that I am going to serve for her.
